

Animal Comfort Care Centre

We are proud to have recently opened a specialised veterinary palliative medicine and end-of-life-care service in Melbourne.

We work collegially alongside you with pet parents, specialists, and allied health services to provide all round care to companion animals and their caregivers.

Meet Dr Anupam Sharma whose qualifications include:

- BVSc from University of Sydney
- Certified Hospice and Palliative Care Veterinarian (CHPV) through The International Association for Animal Hospice and Palliative Care (IAAHPC); One of only twelve CHPV in Australia.
- Member of the ANZ College of Veterinary Scientists in Small Animal Medicine
- Certified Canine Myo-Manipulative Functional Therapist
- Mental Health First Aid Provider

Dr Sharma provides a combination of clinical medicine as well as scientifically proven integrative medicine to help animals. As a team we place enormous focus on nurturing the human-animal bond by spending an extended amount of time with pet-parents.

So where do you fit in?

- You will still be the primary attending on the case
- The patient will come to you for any and all diagnostics
- We will liaise with you ongoing through the pet's care

What kind of cases can you refer?

- Palliative care medicine can be applied at any stage of the disease in any patient of any age
- Hospice is palliative care medicine applied at end-of-life
- As such, any patient that may require supportive care ongoing, such as hepatic shunt to end-stage cancer care, we can help you help your clients!
